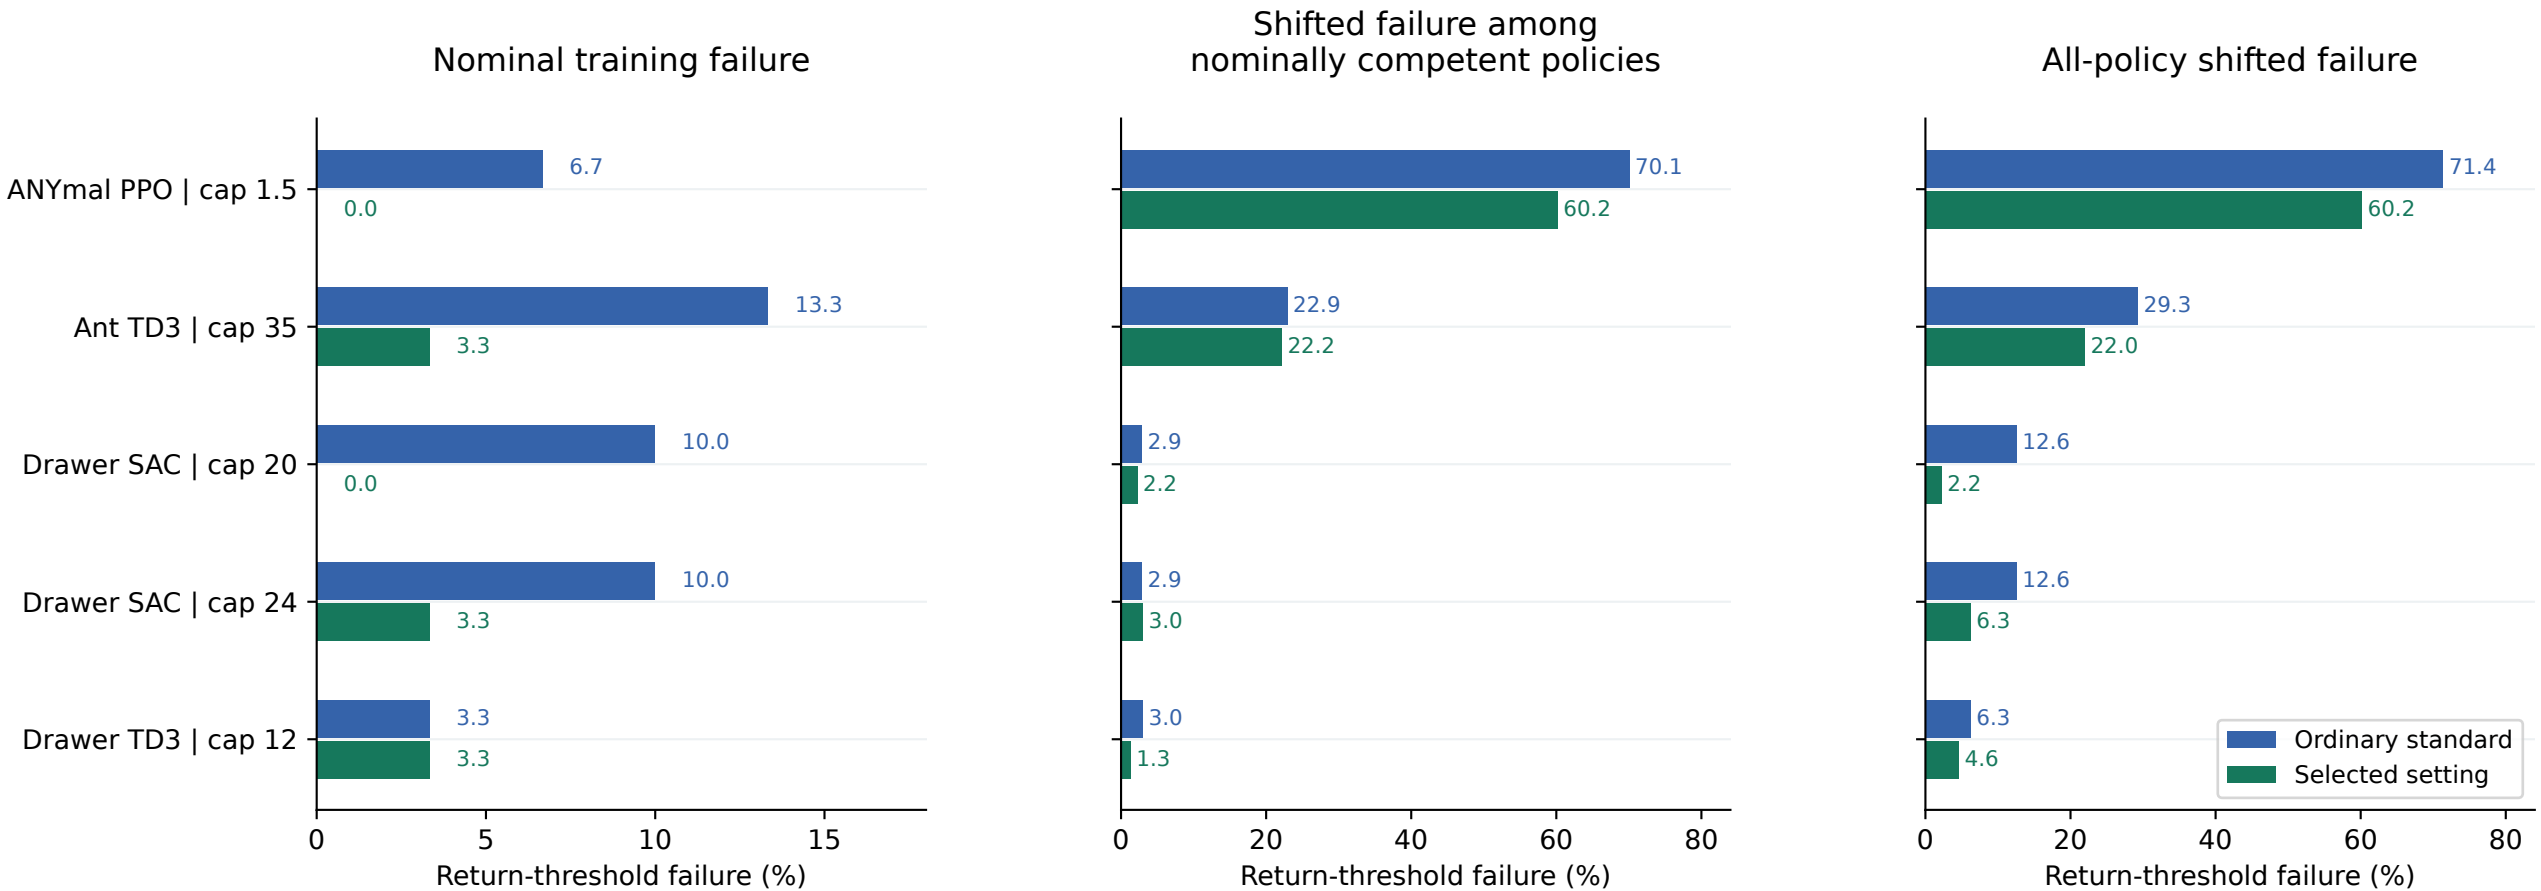
Better nominal learning and shifted robustness are different questions



Descriptive, axis-balanced rates; catastrophe means R < 0.5 R0, not physical task failure.
Conditional rates use each method's own competent subset (different populations), not a matched causal contrast or an additive decomposition.